

ALC Application Fee Table

The date an application was submitted to the local government in the ALC Application Portal determines how much the application fee is, what the split between the local government and the ALC is, and who collects what portion of the fee. Local governments may have applications in all of these payment scenarios as older applications are reviewed by your board/council and processed.

Please refer to the table below when receiving and forwarding applications to confirm which application fee instructions to follow. Refer to the 'Date submitted to LG' column in the Local Government Inbox in the Portal. If the local government receives the Total Application Fee for an application, the local government must remit the ALC's portion of the fee.

<sup>1</sup>If a Soil or Fill Use applicant previously submitted an NOI, the $150 NOI fee is deducted from the total application fee ($1,500 to $1,350). Local government portion remains unchanged.

<sup>2</sup>If a Soil or Fill Use applicant previously submitted an NOI, the $150 NOI fee is deducted from the ALC portion ($1,200 to $1,050).

<sup>3</sup>If a Soil or Fill Use applicant previously submitted an NOI, the $150 NOI fee is deducted from the ALC portion ($750 to $600).

<sup>4</sup>Effective September 30, 2020, exclusion applications may only be submitted by a local government, First Nations government, or a prescribed body. This is the total fee the prescribed body must pay.

<sup>5</sup>Effective September 30, 2020, this is the portion a prescribed body must pay directly to the local or First Nations government.

<sup>6</sup>Effective September 30, 2020, this is the fee the local government, First Nations government, or prescribed body must submit to the ALC.

<sup>7</sup>Transportation, Utility and Recreational Use applications and Notices of Intent are submitted directly to the ALC.
